FIRE SCIENCE AND
EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

Mitigation, preparation response, recovery

Our program is a comprehensive all-hazards program with a goal of reducing the public vulnerability to disasters and other major events. The program is designed to address the four major umbrella areas of emergency management, which are mitigation, preparation, response, and recovery.

The magnitude of natural disasters, terrorist incidents, and other major emergencies has increased the public awareness of the importance of effective emergency management. Rapid growth and complexity in this field have created a critical need for a new degree option for those involved in this important career area.

Lakeland's program is endorsed by the FEMA Higher Education Project, the Ohio Emergency Management Agency, Lake County Emergency Management Agency, Ashtabula County EMA, Geauga County Department of Emergency Services, and the Greater Cleveland Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Employment in this field is growing in the United States, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Businesses and industries offer employment in emergency, disaster, or continuity of operations planning. Our graduates also find jobs in risk management and zoning departmental emergency planning.

Degree and certificate options are available. Our program is designed for both pre-service students and in-service practitioners. Our classes are offered on campus and conveniently online. Whether you're seeking a degree or professional development, our program will get you job-ready and ready to advance.
