Criminal Justice

Today's world demands an increasing presence of skilled criminal justice professionals at all levels of government to protect lives and property, deter crime, uphold the law, seek justice, and supervise and rehabilitate offenders. While a career in criminal justice will offer many rewards, it will also be filled with many challenges. Are you ready to step up and face those challenges? With an Associate of Applied Sciences Degree in Criminal Justice from Lakeland Community College you will be properly prepared to make a difference in your community.

Career Opportunities

There are many career possibilities within the criminal justice field, which includes law enforcement, the courts and corrections. Some common positions include police officers or deputy sheriffs, detectives, special agents, probation or parole officers, bailiffs, and correctional officers.

In law enforcement, 78 percent are employed at the local level; 11 percent at the state level; seven percent at the federal level; and three percent at educational institutions. Employment of police and detectives is projected to grow seven percent from 2016 to 2026, about as fast as the average for all occupations. The median annual wage for police and detectives was $63,380 in May 2018*.

Employment of probation officers and correctional treatment specialists is projected to grow six percent from 2016 to 2026, about as fast as the average for all occupations. The median annual wage for probation officers and correctional treatment specialists was $53,020 in May 2018*.

State and local budget constraints and prison population levels will determine how many correctional officers are necessary. The median annual wage for bailiffs was $49,870 and the median annual wage for correctional officers and jailers was $44,400 in May 2018*. *Source: bls.gov/ooh

Lakeland's Program

The Criminal Justice degree program introduces pre-service students to careers in law enforcement and corrections. It equips students with both the skills and knowledge needed to pursue careers and/or additional education. Positions are available at the federal, state and local governmental levels, and within community-based programs and private organizations.

The program is also intended to support the continued professional growth of in-service criminal justice practitioners through the enhancement of general skills, knowledge and abilities. Therefore, credit may be granted for in-service practitioners who present proof of having completed advanced law enforcement-related training, educational programs and/or the Basic Police and Corrections Training Academies. Students seeking credit for experience should contact a criminal justice specialist in the Counseling Office.

Legislative mandates also govern admission requirements for employment in the criminal justice field. These mandates include, but are not limited to, physical fitness, maintenance of both good moral character, and a clean adult and juvenile criminal record.

The following partnership and advanced degree programs are currently offered through Lakeland's Holden University Center:

- Cleveland State University: Bachelor of Arts in Public Safety Management
- Youngstown State University: Bachelor of Science in Applied Science in Criminal Justice
- Notre Dame College: Master of Arts in National Security and Intelligence Studies

The Lakeland Advantage

- Lakeland's relationships with local agencies give students opportunities for hands-on internships at sites that include private security and investigative firms, police and sheriffs, correctional facilities, courts, park districts, and many others.
- Lakeland's faculty and advisory committee of seasoned criminal justice professionals ensure academic quality, as well as guide and direct Lakeland's program to meet unique needs of the area.
- All faculty are current or former practitioners in policing, courts, corrections, juvenile justice, and forensic science at the federal, state and local level.

Lakeland Community College Admission Requirements

For admission into Lakeland, students must be a high school graduate or have obtained a high school diploma equivalency and a clean criminal record. Please consult Lakeland Community College's Enrollment Guide (available on Lakeland's website at lakelandcc.edu/enrollment) for specific admissions requirements and procedures.
