

The Bowling Green State University (BGSU) Master of Science in Criminal Justice (MSCJ) program is a great choice for individuals needing the graduate degree as an entry-level credential for careers in middle management, leadership positions and supervisory roles. The advanced degree is also a coveted asset for those currently working in the field who are seeking advancement and are interested in boosting their professionalism and competence beyond the baccalaureate degree. It takes less than two years to complete the degree if students complete one course every seven weeks.
